Archbishop Desmond Tutu, Nobel Peace Prize winner, Chair of The Elders, and Chair of South Africa’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission, along with his daughter, the Reverend Mpho Tutu, offer a manual on the art of forgiveness—helping us to realize that we are all capable of healing and transformation. Tutu’s role as the Chair of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission taught him much about forgiveness. If you asked anyone what they thought was going to happen to South Africa after apartheid, almost universally it was predicted that the country would be devastated by a comprehensive bloodbath. Yet, instead of revenge and retribution, this new nation chose to tread the difficult path of confession, forgiveness, and reconciliation. Each one of us has a deep need to forgive and to be forgiven. After much reflection on the process of forgiveness, Tutu has seen that there are four important steps to healing: Admitting the wrong and acknowledging the harm; Telling one’s story and witnessing the anguish; Asking for forgiveness and granting forgiveness; and renewing or releasing the relationship. Forgiveness is hard work. Sometimes it even feels like an impossible task. But it is only through walking this fourfold path that Tutu says we can free ourselves of the endless and unyielding cycle of pain and retribution. The Book of Forgiving is both a touchstone and a tool, offering Tutu’s wise advice and showing the way to experience forgiveness. Ultimately, forgiving is the only means we have to heal ourselves and our aching world.

This is probably the best book on forgiveness that I have read, and I have read many books on the subject. Most of the books that I’ve read just talk about all the reasons why you should forgive, and I am well aware of all the reasons why - I don’t need another book telling me all the reasons - I’ve been looking for books that give the how do you go about this - how do you get there when you are so bitter and so angry. This is something that I struggle with more than any other issue - not only do I struggle with forgiving others, but I struggle with forgiving myself more than anything else - The struggle that I’ve had is why do I have to pay the price for what other people have done to me? why do I have to suffer so much - why do I have to experience so much pain. I see from this book that a person gets stuck in an endless loop that has no way out but forgiveness - thats the only path to freedom. I think that in our society nobody wants to hear about your pain and suffering. They want you to get past it already - Its like Im never supposed to say anything so I stuff all my feelings. This book in many ways gives you permission to feel. That there is another way..
